

Response to Associate Editor Comments

Congratulations! You have sufficiently addressed all the questions and suggestions requested by the reviewer. Your manuscript is now very close to being accepted for publication in WES.

However, a few technical issues still need to be corrected. Please carefully read the instructions for manuscripts, especially concerning SI units, tables and figures format and references. The instructions are available from <https://www.wind-energy-science.net/submission.html>.

Response: The authors would like to thank the Associate Editor for accepting the revised manuscript and for pointing out the issues that need to be fixed. The authors have now made the necessary changes including ensuring correct units, formatting and providing descriptive captions for figures and tables as well as references.
