

We would like to extend our sincere gratitude to respected Associate Editor Dr. Bianchini and respected Chief Handling Editor Dr. Veers for their invaluable guidance and meticulous attention, which significantly contributed to the paper's improvement. We also want to express our profound thanks to the entire team at the WES for helping our paper for publication. We are profoundly thankful to the diligent reviewers for their insightful feedback and constructive criticism, which greatly enhanced the quality of our research. Being published in the WES, a renowned platform for high-quality research, is a privilege, and we are eager to share our findings with the global scientific community. Thank you to all involved for your commitment to scientific excellence; we look forward to further collaborations with the journal in the future.

Sincerely,

Aref Ehteshami
