Thank you for your fine revision. I have improved my reference section.

The revisions have addressed the primary concerns. There are still some issues with references (for example the Masjedian and Keshmiri article is still difficult to find - Semantic Scholar doesn't provide a pdf or concrete information about where the article was published) but these are more technical corrections.

- Yes, indeed. I corrected the Masjedian reference, as the previous URL was no longer accessible. I carefully reviewed all references and made multiple structural improvements to the document. Additionally, I verified and updated all the URLs.
- I also added a pdf as a supplement document to show the trackchanges file
